Why vessel lists / fisher information?

- In the event of a HR abuse: to know whether a vessel in the FIP was involved in order to identify the remedies that the affected fisher(s) can access (e.g., an employer or buyer's grievance mechanism)
- To educate fishers about their rights, ensure adequate grievance mechanisms, and conduct an accurate risk assessment (if applicable)

Key Definitions
Fisher	Any person of any age employed or engaged in any capacity or carrying out an occupation on board any fishing vessel, including persons working on board who are paid on the basis of a share of the catch but excluding pilots, naval personnel, other persons in the permanent service of a government, shore-based persons carrying out work aboard a fishing vessel and fisheries observers.
International Maritime Organisation number	A permanent number assigned to ships for identification purposes. (Source: IMO).
Unique Vessel Identifier	A global unique number that is assigned to a vessel to ensure traceability through reliable, verified and permanent identification of the vessel. (Source: FAO).
Vessel	A vehicle used to catch or transport fish or fishers. This includes transshipment vessels. FisheryProgress defines vessels by their size, as outlined below.
	Large vessels are those which weigh 10 gross tons or more, or are longer than 12 meters.
	Small vessels are those which weigh less than 10 gross tons and are shorter than 12 meters.
Vessel operator	The individual or legal entity that has assumed the responsibility for the operation of the vessel from the owner and who, on assuming such responsibility, has agreed to take over the duties and responsibilities imposed on owners. The vessel operator may be the vessel owner, the captain, skipper, manager, agent, or bareboat charter. (Based on the Maritime Labour Convention, 2006 definition for shipowner).
Vessel owner	The individual or legal entity that appears on the vessel's registration documents. The vessel may be owned by one or several entities, including legal owners and/or beneficial owners that own or control the legal owner.
