NC BLUE CRAB SUSTAINABILITY TEAM

August 17, 2021

The NC BLUE CRAB SUSTAINABILITY TEAM met on August 17, 2021 In attendance was Julie Hodges, Dennis Foreman and Tara Foreman. We decided to reach out to local restaurants to also gain more support towards the sustainability of the NC Blue Crab. Dennis said that he would agree to have his restaurant Waypoint Oyster Bar be the first restaurant to join in the push towards NC Blue Crab sustainability.

The NC BLUE CRAB SUSTAINABILITY TEAM met on September 20, 2021 In attendance was Julie Hodges, Charlie Carawan and Tara Foreman. Seafood Express Line joined Coastal Heritage to support the sustainability of the NC Blue Crab. Seafood Express hauls NC Blue Crab and Crabmeat from Louisiana to New Jersey. Tara stated that she felt that it was imperative to reach out to all types of businesses within the seafood industry to gain more support towards sustainability. It was discussed that we would attend the online web conference on October 27 at 6 pm. We decided not to register for any comment prior because we agree with the closure change.

We just wanted to let you know that the NCDMF has changed the closure for the NC Blue Crab. You must have your pots out of the water by December 31, 2021.

a) It shall be unlawful to possess blue crabs taken from Crab Harvest Management Areas designated in 15A NCAC 6 03R .0118(1) from January 1 through January 31, except dealers shall have seven days after the beginning of the 7 closure to sell, offer for sale, or transport blue crabs that were taken from this area prior to the closure. 8

Also, thanks for all the support you give us with the NC Blue Crab Sustainability.

Yes that would be fine, let me know what times work for you and I'll see if I'm available. I'd also like to include Janelle Johnson in those discussions, she is our blue crab biologist in the Elizabeth City office.

Thanks

Nothing specific to blue crab, but at the next Marine Fisheries Commission meeting in February we will be updating the commission on research about diamondback terrapin excluder devices in crab pots.

The plan now is to update the blue crab stock assessment next year.
